

Hillel Alternative Spring Break Nicaragua!!

“Unlike a typical spring break vacation at the beach, this trip profoundly impacted my life and my views of the world. I am left with not only my memories of a wonderful week, but with a passion to become further involved in social justice. In addition to feeling great about my contributions to another country, I am refreshed and rejuvenated and excited about exploring my Jewish identity” —Ari Levine

February 19-26, 2012

Applications Due November 7th

Information Session:

October 26 at 6 PM

or by appointment

Spend this Spring Break with American Jewish World Service and gain a first-hand experience of grassroots development and life in another country. You will work on a hands-on construction project that will help build infrastructure in the local community. Past volunteers have built schools, community centers, and water purification systems and sustainable agriculture initiatives. By living, working, studying and spending Shabbat together in a developing country, this program fosters meaningful exchange with another culture and a lasting Jewish value of Tikkun Olam — repairing the world.
